B. Investment Advisory Services:

1. The Fee Account Program:

The Firm's Wrap Fee Accounts (“Wrap Fee Accounts”) fall under a wrap fee arrangement wherein the client pays a bundled fee that covers the provision of investment advice, brokerage services, and administrative expenses, among other things. A client's portfolio transactions are executed without a transaction fee charge in a wrap fee arrangement. In evaluating such an arrangement, the client should also consider that the wrap fee may or may not exceed the aggregate cost of such services if they were to be provided separately, depending upon the level of the wrap fee charged by the custodian, the amount of portfolio activity in the client's account, and other relevant factors. The Firm is the sponsor and manager of the Wrap Fee Accounts and receives a portion of the wrap fee for its services.

During the initial meeting, an investment advisor representative (“IAR”) will work with the client to determine his or her individual objectives, time horizons, risk tolerance, and liquidity needs. The Firm uses an Investor Questionnaire and/or Risk Profile Assessment to help determine a suitable portfolio for the client. Based on the information provided by the client, the Firm recommends to the client a portfolio.

Once the CCO, the designee, or the Investment Committee approves the portfolio's suitability, the Firm recommends the portfolio to the client and the client accepts the recommendation by signing the IPS and investment advisory agreement. The portfolio is managed based on its objectives. Clients have the opportunity to place reasonable restrictions on the types of investments to be held in their account or the asset classes to be included. The Firm manages these advisory accounts on a discretionary basis. Account supervision is guided by each portfolio's stated objectives (i.e., growth, growth and income, or income), as well as the customer's tax considerations.

The Firm offers a wrap fee brochure to its wrap account clients. A wrap program participant should consider all of the information within this Brochure before participating in the program. The Firm's investment recommendations are not limited to any specific product or service offered by a broker-dealer or insurance company and will generally include advice regarding mutual funds and exchange-traded funds ("ETFs"). The Firm will recommend such investments only when consistent with the client's stated investment objectives, risk tolerance, liquidity, and suitability.

The Firm provides portfolio management services to clients using asset allocation portfolios. Each portfolio is designed to meet a particular investment goal. Through personal discussions with the client in which his or her goals and objectives are established, the Firm determines whether the portfolio is suitable to the client given his or her financial circumstances. Once the Firm confirms suitability, the portfolio is managed based on its objectives. Clients retain individual ownership of all securities.

To ensure that its initial determination of an appropriate portfolio remains suitable, and that the account continues to be managed in a manner consistent with the client's financial circumstances, the Firm will conduct itself as follows:

- Attempt to meet annually with each Wrap Fee Account-managed client either in person, via video conference or by phone and request any updated information regarding changes in the client's financial situation and investment objectives.
- In the meeting, the Firm reviews the client's portfolio, including the portfolio's performance, the investments, the target asset allocations, and the portfolio's current risk. The Firm also discusses whether the client is comfortable with the portfolio's risk and whether the client wishes to make any changes to withdrawals or contributions.
- Be reasonably available to consult with the client.
- Maintain client suitability information in each client's file.
- Rebalance the account quarterly if an asset class varies by five percent (5%) or more from its target allocation.

Uwharrie outsources some of its trading responsibilities to 55ip. 55ip will act as a Separate Account Manager for this activity. 55ip is only authorized to trade client accounts for the purpose of managing the account to the model portfolios that Uwharrie assigns to the account. Uwharrie is still responsible for the selection of model portfolios, whether designed inhouse, in collaboration with or designed by other intuitional partners. The client will be required to sign a Separately Managed Account agreement to authorize 55ip to trade in their account.

2. Third Party Management Wrap Programs:

The Firm has agreements with third-party management (“TPM”) solution providers, the terms of which allow the Firm to leverage the services of one or more sub-advisors available on the platform. The Firm subsequently conducted its own due diligence of the sub-advisors it believed may bring value to the Firm’s clients. All sub-advisors to whom the Firm refers clients are licensed as registered investment advisors by their resident state and any applicable jurisdictions or as registered investment advisors with the SEC.

Depending upon a client’s particular investment goals and objectives, time horizon, risk tolerance, and liquidity needs, the Firm may recommend one or more sub-advisors maintained through the TPM solution provider to manage all or a portion of a client’s investable assets on a day-to-day basis. The sub-advisors recommended for client use have undergone initial due diligence by the Firm and are subject to ongoing annual review. Sub-advisors selected must meet several quantitative and qualitative criteria established by the Firm. Among the criteria considered are the sub-advisor’s experience and regulatory record, assets under management, performance record, client retention, level of client services provided, investment style/philosophy, buy and sell disciplines, capitalization level, and general investment processes. Information collected by the Firm regarding sub-advisors is believed to be reliable and accurate, but the Firm does not necessarily independently review or verify it on all occasions.

The client’s IAR will recommend one or more sub-advisors to the client based on the client’s stated investment objectives, risk tolerance, financial circumstances, and time horizon, among other things, as determined through prior meetings and the client’s completion of the Investor Questionnaire and Risk Profile Assessment. Once the client has selected the sub-advisor(s), the IAR will assist him or her in completing all appropriate documentation necessary to enroll in the program. The client will be required to enter into an investment advisory agreement with the Firm and may be required to enter into an agreement with the TPM solution provider. The Investment Committee reviews and approves all client accounts participating in the TPM program.

Clients are advised and should understand that a sub-advisor’s past performance is no guarantee of future results, that there are various market-related risks that may adversely affect a sub-advisor’s investment objectives and strategies and could cause a loss in a client’s account, and that client risk parameters and/or comparative index selections provided to the Firm are guidelines only and that there is no guarantee that they will be met or not be exceeded.

The client’s IAR will be reasonably available to answer any questions the client may have regarding his or her account and act as a conduit between the client and the sub-advisor(s). Sub-advisors have discretionary authority to determine which securities to be purchased and sold for the client and when. Neither the Firm nor its associated persons have any trading authority with respect to a client account maintained with a sub-advisor.

The Firm does retain discretion in determining if and when to transition the client’s account from one sub-advisor to another, provided that doing so is in the client’s best interest.

The sub-advisor or the TPM solution provider through whom the sub-advisor operates will provide the client with performance reports at least quarterly. The Firm does not audit or verify that these results are calculated on a uniform or consistent basis by the sub-advisor or TPM solution provider or, if applicable, through the consulting service utilized by the sub-advisor or TPM solution provider. These reports are in addition to the custodial account statements provided by the custodian.

Sub-advisor programs generally have account minimum requirements that vary from one advisor to another. Account minimums are generally higher on fixed income accounts than equity-based accounts.

C. Fees and Compensation:

1. Wrap Fee Accounts:

The annualized fee for Wrap Fee portfolio management services will be charged as a percentage of assets under management and in accordance with the following schedule:

Wrap Fee Account Portfolios

Account(s) Value:	Annual Percentage:
$100,000 - $500,000	1.25%
$500,001 - $1,000,000	1.00%
$1,000,001 - $2,000,000	0.75%
Over $2,000,000	0.50%

These schedules are used as a guideline only.

The fees are debited quarterly, in advance, based upon the market value of the client's account at the end of the previous billing period. The wrap fee includes custodial fees and transaction costs in addition to the advisory fee. Fees will be debited from the account in accordance with the client authorization set forth in the Client Services Agreement, Schedule C. The fee is calculated by the Firm using a portfolio management and reporting software system. The value will be determined as reported by the custodian. Fees are assessed on all assets under management, including securities, cash, and money market balances. The aforementioned fees do not include any fees or expenses charged by the mutual funds and/or ETFs, which are separate and distinct. For more information regarding mutual fund and/or ETF fees and expenses, please refer to the "General Information" section (Item 5) of this Form ADV for additional information or the fund's prospectus.

Investors in the Wrap Fee Account Program must make a minimum contribution of $100,000. Account minimum requirements are negotiable under certain circumstances. Wrap Fee Account advisory fees are also negotiable under certain circumstances.

Clients should note that similar advisory services may or may not be available from other registered (or unregistered) investment advisers for similar or lower fees. No increase in the Firm's fee(s) will be effective without a 30-day written notification to the client.

The client should be aware that this program may cost the client more or less than purchasing the services separately. Depending upon the amount of the wrap fee and the amount of trading activity in the client's account, among other factors, the wrap fee may or may not exceed the aggregate cost of the services if they were provided separately.

An investment advisor representative that recommends the wrap fee program to a client will receive compensation as a result of the client's participation in the program. This creates a financial incentive for the investment advisor representative to recommend the wrap fee program over other programs or services.

RELATIVE COST OF THE PROGRAM

A wrap fee program allows our clients to pay a specified fee for investment advisory services and the execution of transactions. Clients do not pay brokerage commissions, markups or transaction charges for execution of transactions in addition to the advisory fee however, some investments trade without transaction fees today, so our payment of these and other incidental custodial related expenses should not be considered a significant factor in determining the relative value of our wrap program.

1. Third Party Management Solution:

Third Party Management Accounts – Wrap Fee Program

Fixed Income Fee Schedule

The Firm's investment advisory fee and TPM provider's fees are negotiable. Wrap fees are debited from client accounts quarterly, in advance, based upon their market value at the end of the previous billing period. For additional information regarding the sub-advisor fees and fees not covered in the wrap fee, please refer to the TPM platform provider's and/or selected sub-advisor's Form ADV, Part 2 or relevant disclosure brochure.

The client may terminate his or her relationship with a sub-advisor or the Firm, in its discretion, may elect to terminate the client's relationship with one or more sub-advisors, provided that the decision to do so is in the client's best interest. The Firm will take into account various factors in rendering its decision to terminate a sub-advisory relationship, including, without limitation, the sub-advisor's failure to adhere to its stated investment philosophy/strategy, material changes in the sub-advisor's investment management team, inexplicable portfolio underperformance, and lax or non-existent internal compliance controls or procedures.

Irrespective of which sub-advisor(s) the client selects, account custodial services are provided through a single custodial platform, the Pershing LLC platform. Please see the "Brokerage Services" section (Item 12) of this Form ADV for additional information regarding this platform. The TPM solution's fees may be higher or lower than other programs available through the Firm or elsewhere. Investment management programs generally vary in the services provided, the management styles offered, and the required investment minimums. - High net worth individuals

The client agreement may be canceled at any time by either party and for any reason upon receipt of five (5) days written notice. As disclosed above, certain fees are paid in advance of services provided. Upon termination of the account, any prepaid, unearned fees will be promptly refunded. In calculating a client's reimbursement of fees, the Firm will pro-rate the reimbursement according to the number of days remaining in the billing period.

Item 6 – Portfolio Manager Selection & Evaluation:

The Firm's portfolio manager is an employee of the Firm, and all of his or her recommendations go before the Investment Committee for review and approval.

We offer the wrap fee program to clients for whom our Firm utilizes a third-party sub-advisor or investment model strategies provided by other asset managers. Our Wrap Fee Program is managed on an individualized basis according to the client's investment objectives, financial goals, risk tolerance, etc.

A. Performance-Based Fees & Side-by-Side Management:

The Firm does not charge performance-based fees, nor does it engage in side-by-side management.

B. Methods of Analysis:

The Firm uses the following methods of analysis in formulating its investment advice and/or managing client assets:

1. Asset Allocation:

Rather than focusing primarily on individual securities selection, the Firm, using Modern Portfolio Theory, attempts to determine an appropriate mix of asset classes, including, but not limited to, various U.S. and international equities, U.S. and international fixed income products, mutual funds or ETFs that hold commodities or alternatives, and cash equivalents. A risk of asset allocation is that the mix of asset classes may change over time due to market movement, and, if not corrected, will no longer be appropriate given the client's objectives.

2. Mutual Fund and/or ETF Analysis:

The Firm analyzes a mutual fund's or ETF's historical performance using various statistics to determine if the fund manager has historically added value above a suitable benchmark over a period greater than three years and across various market conditions. The Firm also looks at the underlying assets in a mutual fund or ETF to assess whether there is significant overlap in the underlying investments held in another fund within the client's portfolio. The Firm also monitors the funds or ETFs to ascertain if the manager is continuing to follow his or her stated investment strategy.

If the Firm concludes that a manager is not consistently adding value above a suitable benchmark, or if the manager is not following his/her stated investment policy, the Firm will conduct a manager search to determine a replacement for the mutual fund or ETF. The Firm gathers information on the product in order to determine how the mutual fund or ETF compares to product peers and to a benchmark. The decision to hire, fire, or replace managers is made by the Firm's Investment Committee.

As in all securities investments, a risk of mutual fund and/or ETF analysis is that past performance does not guarantee future results. A manager who has been successful may not be able to replicate that success in the future. In addition, as the Firm does not control the underlying investments in a fund or ETF, managers of different funds held by the client may purchase the same security, increasing the risk to the client if that security were to fall in value. There is also a risk that a manager may deviate from the stated investment

3. Third Party Manager Analysis:

The Firm seeks to recommend an investment strategy that will give the client a diversified portfolio consistent with the client's stated investment objectives. The Firm will analyze various securities, investment strategies, and third-party investment management firms. The objective is to identify the client's risk tolerance, and then select the most appropriate manager for that client.

The Firm examines the experience, expertise, investment philosophies, and past performance of independent third-party managers in an attempt to determine if that manager has demonstrated an ability to invest over a period of time and in different economic conditions. The Firm will monitor the managers' underlying holdings, strategies, concentrations, and leverage as part of a periodically conducted risk assessment. Additionally, as part of the due diligence process, the Firm will survey the managers' compliance and business enterprise risks.

A risk of investing with a third-party manager who has been successful in the past is that the manager may not be able to replicate that success in the future. In addition, as the Firm does not control the underlying investments in a managers' portfolio, there is also a risk that the manager may deviate from the portfolio's stated investment mandate or strategy, making it a less suitable investment for Firm clients. Moreover, as the Firm does not control the managers' daily business and compliance operations, the Firm may be unaware of the lack of internal controls necessary to prevent business, regulatory, or reputational deficiencies.

4. Risks for all forms of analysis:

The Firm's securities analysis methods rely on the assumption that the companies whose securities the Firm purchases and sells, the rating agencies that review these securities, and other publicly available sources of information about these securities are providing accurate and unbiased data. While the Firm is alert to indications that data may be incorrect, there is always a risk that the Firm's analysis may be compromised by inaccurate or misleading information.

C. Risk of Loss:

Clients must understand that past performance is not indicative of future results. Therefore, current and prospective clients should never assume that future performance of any specific investment or investment strategy will be profitable. Investing in securities involves risk of loss. Further, depending on the different types of investments there will be varying degrees of risk. Clients and prospective clients should be prepared to bear investment loss, including loss of original principal.

Because of the inherent risk of loss associated with investing, the Firm is unable to represent, guarantee, or even imply that its services and methods of analysis can or will predict future results, successfully identify market tops or bottoms, or insulate clients from losses due to market corrections or declines.

Investors should be aware that accounts are subject to the following risks:

1. Market Risk:

Even a long-term investment approach cannot guarantee a profit. Economic, political, and issuer-specific events will cause the value of securities to rise or fall. Since the value of investment portfolios will fluctuate, there is the risk that client will lose money and his or her investment may be worth more or less upon liquidation.

2. Foreign Securities and Currency Risk:

Investments in international and emerging-market securities include exposure to risks such as currency fluctuations, foreign taxes and regulations, and the potential for illiquid markets and political instability.

3. Capitalization Risk:

Small-cap and mid-cap companies may be hindered as a result of limited resources or less diverse products or services, and their stocks have historically been more volatile than the stocks of larger, more established companies.

4. Interest Rate Risk:

In a rising rate environment, the value of fixed-income securities generally declines and the value of equity securities may be adversely affected.

5. Credit Risk:

Credit risk is the risk that the issuer of a security may be unable to make interest payments and/or repay principal when due. A downgrade to an issuer's credit rating or a perceived change in an issuer's financial strength may affect a security's value and, thus, impact the fund's performance.

6. Securities Lending Risk:

Securities lending involves the risk that the fund loses money because the borrower fails to return the securities in a timely manner or at all. The fund could also lose money if the value of the collateral provided for loaned securities, or the value of the investments made with the cash collateral, falls. These events could also trigger adverse tax consequences for the fund.

7. Exchange-Traded Funds:

ETFs face market-trading risks, including the potential lack of an active market for shares, losses from trading in the secondary markets, and disruption in the creation/redemption process of the ETF. Any of these factors may lead to the fund's shares trading at either a premium or a discount to its "net asset value."

8. Performance of Underlying Managers:

We review the selected mutual funds and ETFs in the portfolios. However, we depend on the manager of such funds to select individual investments in accordance with their stated investment strategy.

9. Liquidity Risk:

Liquidity risk exists when particular investments would be difficult to purchase or sell, possibly preventing clients from selling such securities at an advantageous time or price.

10. Cybersecurity Risk:

Cybersecurity risks include both intentional and unintentional events at Uwharrie Investment Advisers or one of its third-party counterparties or service providers, that may result in a loss or corruption of data, result in the unauthorized release or other misuse of confidential information, and generally compromise our Firm's ability to conduct its business. A cybersecurity breach may also result in a third-party obtaining unauthorized access to our clients' information, including social security numbers, home addresses, account numbers, account balances, and account holdings. Our Firm has established business continuity plans and risk management systems designed to reduce the risks associated with cybersecurity breaches. However, there are inherent limitations in these plans and systems, including that certain risks may not have been identified, in large part because different or unknown threats may emerge in the future. As such, there is no guarantee that such efforts will succeed, especially because our Firm does not directly control the cybersecurity systems of our third-party service providers. There is also a risk that cybersecurity breaches may not be detected.

D. Voting Client Securities:

As a matter of policy, the Firm does not vote proxies on its clients' behalf. Clients maintain exclusive responsibility for:

- directing the manner in which proxies solicited by issuers of securities beneficially owned by the client are to be voted, and
- making all elections relative to any mergers, acquisitions, tender offers, bankruptcy proceedings, or other type events pertaining to the client's investment assets.

Clients are responsible for instructing each custodian to forward to the client copies of all proxies and shareholder communications relating to the client's investment assets. The Firm does not offer any consulting assistance regarding proxy issues to clients.

The Firm will neither advise nor act on behalf of clients in legal proceedings involving companies whose securities are held in client account(s), including, but not limited to, the filing of "Proofs of Claim" in class action settlements. If desired, clients may direct the Firm to transmit copies of class action notices to the client or a third party. Upon such direction, the Firm will make commercially reasonable efforts to forward such notices in a timely manner.

Item 7 – Client Information Provided to Portfolio Managers:

When we use a TPM we provide the TPM with client personal data.

Item 8 – Client Contact with Portfolio Managers:

There are no restrictions on client contact with the Firm or its investment advisor representatives, including the portfolio managers.

Item 9 – Additional Information:

A. Disciplinary Information:

The Firm is required to disclose any legal or disciplinary events that are material to a client's or prospective client's evaluation of the Firm's advisory business or the integrity of its management. The Firm does not have any legal or disciplinary events to disclose.

B. Holding Company & Related Company Affiliations:

1. Uwharrie Capital Corp:

The Firm is an investment adviser and a wholly owned subsidiary of Uwharrie Capital Corp, a bank financial holding company that offers a broad spectrum of banking products and financial services to consumers, locally owned businesses, and commercial clients. As an Uwharrie Capital Corp subsidiary, the Firm is under common ownership and control with several financial institutions, including TSAC (a broker-dealer), BOS Agency, Inc. (an insurance company), and Uwharrie Bank (a community bank) (collectively, the “Related Companies”).

The Firm shares client information with its Related Companies; except under certain circumstances, clients may opt out of having their information shared with Related Companies.

2. The Strategic Alliance Corporation, a FINRA member broker-dealer and subsidiary of Uwharrie Bank:

Certain personnel of the Firm are registered representatives of TSAC, a securities broker-dealer and SIPC member. TSAC's broker-dealer activities primarily involve the selling of private placements. These individuals spend a portion of their time engaged in broker-dealer activities. With respect to private placements, these individuals are not compensated through commissions, but rather through their efforts in underwriting the private placement.

3. BOS Agency, Inc.:

BOS Agency, Inc., an affiliated entity, is a licensed insurance agency with the State of North Carolina. As such, certain Firm IARs are compensated for selling insurance products to clients to whom Firm investment advisory services are offered. Very little time, if any, of the IARs' time is spent on these activities.

4. Uwharrie Bank:

Uwharrie Bank is a wholly owned subsidiary of Uwharrie Capital Corp. Uwharrie Bank is a North Carolina community bank offering various banking products and services to clients. The Firm refers prospective clients to Uwharrie Bank and receives referrals from the affiliate bank. See Item 9(G) for additional information. Certain personnel of the Firm are also employees of Uwharrie Bank, a wholly owned subsidiary of Uwharrie Capital Corp. Dual employees of Uwharrie Bank and the Firm are compensated for bank products and services by Uwharrie Bank.

C. Other Financial Industry Activities:

1. Broker Dealer:

Certain Firm IARs are registered representatives of Private Client Services, LLC (“PCS”), a FINRA-registered broker-dealer and SIPC member. The Firm and PCS are separate, distinct, and unaffiliated entities. PCS registered representatives are compensated for effecting securities transactions and engaging in other brokerage-related activities. The Firm’s IARs spend a portion of their time engaged in broker-dealer activities.

As a broker-dealer, PCS engages in a broad range of activities normally associated with securities brokerage firms. Clients who purchase a brokerage-related, commission generating product through a PCS registered representative will not be assessed an advisory fee on the product purchased.

You should note that you have the right to decide to purchase products through the broker-dealer. If you do decide to purchase products, you have the right to choose from whom you will purchase the products. You are advised that if PCS is selected as the broker-dealer, the transaction charges may be higher or lower than the charges you may pay if the transactions were executed at other broker-dealers.

The registered representative may recommend the purchase of mutual fund securities. Each fund company pays its own separate investment advisory fees and other expenses. Mutual funds also charge their own internal separate fees for investing in their fund. Such fees and expenses are disclosed in the mutual fund’s prospectus. In addition, clients should be aware that mutual funds may be purchased separately, independent of PCS’s brokerage services and fees.

Moreover, you should note that under FINRA’s rules and regulations, PCS has an obligation to maintain certain client records and perform other functions regarding certain aspects of its registered representatives’ investment advisory activities. These obligations require PCS to coordinate with and have the cooperation of its registered representatives that operate as, or are otherwise associated with, investment advisers other than PCS.

2. Insurance:

The Firm's IARs also act as agents appointed with various life, disability, or other insurance companies. In their capacity as agents, the Firm's IARs will receive commissions, trails, or other compensation from the product sponsors and/or as a result of effecting insurance transactions for clients. You have the right to decide whether or not to act on the insurance recommendations from the Firm's IARs. If you decide to act upon the Firm's insurance recommendations, you have the right to choose the insurance professional to use to purchase the insurance products through the Firm's IAR or any licensed insurance agent not affiliated with the Firm. The Firm recognizes its fiduciary responsibility to place your interests first; it has established policies in this regard to mitigate any conflicts of interest.

D. Other Information Concerning Related Activities:

The Firm's related persons may spend as much as thirty percent (30%) of their time on these related activities. Clients should be aware that the receipt of additional compensation by the Firm and its management persons or employees creates a conflict of interest that could impair the objectivity of the Firm and these individuals when making advisory recommendations. The Firm endeavors at all times to put its clients' interests first, as part of its fiduciary duty as a registered investment adviser. The Firm takes the following steps to address this conflict:

- The Firm discloses to clients the existence of all material conflicts of interest, including the potential for the Firm and its employees to earn compensation from advisory clients in addition to advisory fees;
- The Firm discloses to clients that they are not obligated to purchase recommended investment products from the Firm's employees or Related Companies;
- The Firm collects, maintains, and documents accurate, complete, and relevant client background information, including the client's financial goals, objectives, and risk tolerance;
- The Firm's management team conducts reviews of each client account to verify that all recommendations made to a client are suitable given the client's needs and circumstances;
- The Firm requires that its employees seek prior approval of any outside employment activity so that it may ensure that any conflicts of interests in such activities are properly addressed;
- The Firm periodically monitors these outside employment activities to verify that any conflicts of interest continue to be properly addressed by the Firm; and
- The Firm educates its employees regarding the responsibilities of a fiduciary, including the need for having a reasonable and independent basis for the investment advice provided to clients.

E. Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading:

The Firm has adopted a Code of Ethics, which sets forth high ethical standards of business conduct that it requires of its employees, including compliance with applicable federal securities laws. The Firm and its personnel owe a duty of care, a duty of loyalty, fairness, and good faith to clients, and have an obligation to adhere not only to the specific provisions of the Code of Ethics but also to the general principles that guide the Code.

The Firm's Code of Ethics includes policies and procedures for the review of quarterly securities transactions reports, as well as initial and annual securities holdings reports that must be submitted by the Firm's access persons. Among other things, the Firm's Code of Ethics requires the prior approval of any acquisition of securities in a limited offering (e.g., private placement) or an initial public offering. The Firm's Code also provides for oversight, enforcement, and recordkeeping.

The Firm's Code of Ethics further includes a prohibition against the use of material non-public information. Apart from the Firm's holding company stock, for which all individuals with non-public information are required to abide by strict standards and are prohibited from trading during blackout periods, the Firm does not believe that it has access to material, non-public information for those investments in client portfolios, all employees are reminded that such information may not be used in a personal or professional capacity.

A copy of the Firm's Code of Ethics is available to advisory clients and prospective clients. You may request a copy by email sent to mthornburg@uwharrie.com or by calling us at 704-983-5959.

The Firm and associated persons are prohibited from engaging in agency cross and principal transactions.

The Firm's Code of Ethics is designed to assure that the personal securities transactions, activities, and the interests of the Firm's employees will not interfere with

- making decisions in the advisory clients' best interests; and
- implementing such decisions while simultaneously allowing employees to invest in their own accounts.

The Firm and/or individuals associated with the Firm may buy or sell for their personal accounts securities identical to or different from those recommended to the Firm's clients. In addition, any related persons may have an interest or position in a certain security, which may also be recommended to a client. However, Firm personnel must pre-clear reportable securities trades prior to effecting the retail brokerage trade.

No Firm-employed person may purchase or sell any security prior to a transaction being implemented for an advisory account. This prevents the employee from benefiting from transactions placed on behalf of the Firm's clients.

The Firm's related persons are separately registered as securities representatives of a broker-dealer and/or licensed as an insurance agent/broker of various insurance companies. Please refer to Item 9(B), (C), & (D) for a detailed explanation of these relationships and important conflict of interest disclosures.

As these situations represent actual or potential conflicts of interest to Firm clients, the Firm has established the following policies and procedures for implementing its Code of Ethics to ensure the Firm complies with its regulatory obligations, and provide clients and potential clients with full and fair disclosure of such conflicts of interest:

- No principal or employee of the Firm may put his or her own interest above the interest of an advisory client.
- No principal or employee of the Firm may buy or sell securities for his or her personal portfolio(s) where the decision is a result of information received as a result of employment, unless the information is also available to the investing public.

- The Firm requires prior approval for any IPO or private placement investments.

F. Review of Accounts:

1. Account Reviews and Reviewers – Investment Supervisory Services:

The Firm's IARs will monitor client accounts on a regular basis and attempt to perform annual reviews with each client. All accounts are reviewed for consistency with client investment strategy, asset allocation, risk tolerance, and performance relative to an appropriate benchmark. More frequent reviews may be triggered by changes in an account holder's personal, tax, or financial status. Geopolitical and macroeconomic specific events may also trigger reviews.

2. Statements and Reports:

The custodian for the individual client's account will provide clients with an account statement at least quarterly. Communication to clients will be done on an as needed basis with a minimum of one (1) contact per calendar year. You are urged to compare the reports provided by the Firm against the account statements you receive directly from the account custodian.

G. Client Referrals and Other Compensation:

If a referral of a client by a Firm representative to Uwharrie Bank is made and results in new business to the bank, Uwharrie Bank will pay the Firm's IAR a nominal referral fee. The nominal referral fee amount to be paid is based on the type of business generated. For residential mortgage loans, Uwharrie Bank pays the Firm's IAR a nominal referral payment of $200 for each loan closed; for other types of loans and for merchant services, the nominal referral payment is $50. For credit cards issued with lines of $5,000 or more, Uwharrie Bank pays the Firm's IAR a nominal referral payment of $25 for each account opened. The services provided by Uwharrie Bank are separate and distinct from the Firm's advisory services and are provided for separate and additional compensation.

Uwharrie Bank personnel are paid a nominal fee for referring bank clients to the Firm. If a referral made by an employee of Uwharrie Bank to the Firm results in an appointment to discuss investment options for amounts of $50,000 or greater, Uwharrie Bank pays the referring bank employee a nominal fee of $50. The nominal referral fee is paid regardless of if the appointment results in new business to the Firm. The services provided by the Firm are separate and distinct from Uwharrie Bank's services and are provided for separate and additional compensation.

Other than as described above, it is the Firm's policy not to accept or allow its related persons to accept any form of compensation, including cash, sales, awards, or other prizes from a non-client in conjunction with the advisory services the Firm provides to its clients.

H. Brokerage Practices:

1. Trade Aggregation:

The Firm will block trades where possible and when advantageous to clients. This blocking of trades permits the trading of aggregate blocks of securities composed of assets from multiple client accounts, so long as transaction costs are shared equally and on a pro-rated basis between all accounts included in any such block.

Block trading generally allows the Firm to execute equity trades in a timelier, more equitable manner, and at an average share price. The Firm will typically aggregate trades among clients whose accounts can be traded at a given broker, and generally will rotate or vary the order of brokers through which it places trades for clients on any particular day. The Firm's block trading policy and procedures are as follows:

- Transactions for any client account will not be aggregated for execution if the practice is prohibited by or inconsistent with the client's investment advisory agreement with the Firm or the Firm's order allocation policy.
- The portfolio manager must determine both that the purchase or sale of the particular security involved is appropriate for the client and is consistent with the client's investment objectives, as well as any investment guidelines or restrictions applicable to the client's account.
- The portfolio manager must reasonably believe that the order aggregation will benefit each client and will enable the Firm to seek best execution for each client participating in the aggregated order. This requires a good faith judgment at the time the order is placed for the execution. It does not mean that the determination made in advance of the transaction must always prove to have been correct in the light of a "20-20 hindsight" perspective. Best execution includes the duty to seek the best quality of execution, as well as the best net price.
- Prior to entry of an aggregated order, a written order ticket must be completed that identifies each client account participating in the order and the proposed allocation of the order to those clients upon completion.
- If the order cannot be executed in full at the same price or time, the securities actually purchased or sold by the close of each business day must be allocated pro rata among the participating client accounts in accordance with the initial order ticket or other written statement of allocation. However, adjustments to this pro rata allocation may be made to participating client accounts in accordance with the initial order ticket or other written statement of allocation. Furthermore, adjustments to this pro rata allocation may be made to avoid having odd amounts of shares held in any client account or to avoid excessive ticket charges in smaller accounts.
- Generally, each client that participates in the aggregated order must do so at the average price for all separate transactions made to fill the order and must share in the commissions on a pro-rata basis in proportion to the client's participation. Under the client's agreement with the custodian/broker, transaction costs may be based on the number of shares traded for each client.
- If the order will be allocated in a manner other than that stated in the initial statement of allocation, a written explanation of the change must be provided to and approved by the CCO or designee no later than the morning following the aggregate trade's execution.
- The Firm's client account records separately reflect, for each account in which the aggregated transaction occurred, the securities which are held by, and bought and sold for, that account.
- Funds and securities for aggregated orders are clearly identified on the Firm's records and to the broker-dealers or other intermediaries handling the transactions, by the appropriate account numbers for each participating client.

- No client or account will be favored over another.

2. Directed Brokerage:

The Firm recommends that clients establish brokerage accounts with PAS, an affiliate of Pershing LLC (“Pershing”), a FINRA registered broker-dealer and SIPC member. PAS maintains custody of clients' assets and effects trades for their accounts. PAS and Pershing are the Bank of New York Mellon Company, Inc.'s subsidiaries. Although the Firm recommends that clients establish accounts at PAS and Pershing, it is the client's decision with whom he or she custodies assets. The Firm is independently owned and operated; it is not affiliated with PAS or Pershing. Since the Firm only uses one custodial platform, a customer's request to use another custodian could result in the customer not being able to open an account with the Firm.

3. Economic Benefits:

PAS/Pershing provides the Firm with access to the institutional trading and custody services, which are typically not available to Pershing retail investors. These services generally are available to independent investment advisers on an unsolicited basis, at no charge to them so long as a total of at least $10 million of the adviser's clients' assets are maintained in accounts at Pershing. PAS/Pershing's brokerage services include the execution of securities transactions, custody, research, and access to mutual funds and other investments that are otherwise generally available only to institutional investors or would require a significantly higher minimum initial investment.

PAS/Pershing receives a percentage of the fee charged to the customer based on the assets under management. Services provided by PAS/Pershing include the execution of securities transactions, custody, research, and access to mutual funds. Clients are able to buy some no-load funds and funds at net asset value because they are participating in the managed program.

PAS/Pershing also makes available to the Firm other products and services that benefit the Firm but may not directly benefit its clients' accounts. Many of these products and services may be used to service all or some substantial number of the Firm's client accounts, including accounts not maintained at PAS/Pershing. PAS/Pershing's products and services, which assist the Firm in managing and administering client accounts, include software and other technology solutions that

- provide access to client account data (such as trade confirmations and account statements);
- facilitate trade execution and allocate aggregated trade orders for multiple client accounts;
- provide research, pricing, and other market data;
- facilitate payment of Firm fees from client accounts; and
- assist with back-office functions, recordkeeping, and client reporting.

PAS/Pershing also offers other services intended to help the Firm manage and further develop its business enterprise. These services include:

- compliance, legal, and business consulting;
- publications and conferences on practice management and business succession; and

- access to employee benefits providers, human capital consultants, and insurance providers.

PAS/Pershing may make available, arrange, and/or pay third-party vendors for the types of services rendered to the Firm. In its discretion, PAS/Pershing discounts or waives fees it would otherwise charge for some of these services or pays all or a part of the fees of a third-party providing these services to the Firm. PAS/Pershing may also provide other benefits, such as educational events or occasional business entertainment of Firm personnel. In evaluating whether to recommend or require that clients custody their assets at PAS/Pershing, the Firm takes into account the availability of some of the foregoing products and services and other arrangements as part of the total mix of factors the Firm considers and not solely on the nature, cost, or quality of custody and brokerage services provided by PAS/Pershing, which creates a potential conflict of interest.

4. Trade Errors:

The Firm has implemented procedures designed to prevent trade errors; however, trade errors in client accounts cannot always be avoided. Consistent with its fiduciary duty, it is the Firm's policy to correct trade errors in a manner that is in the best interest of the client. In cases where the client causes the trade error, the client will be responsible for any loss resulting from the correction. In all situations where the client does not cause the trade error, the client will be made whole and the Firm will absorb any loss resulting from the trade error if the error was caused by the Firm. If the error is caused by the custodian, the custodian will be responsible for covering all trade error costs. The Firm will never benefit or profit from trade errors.

For clients enrolled in the Firm's TPM Program, please note that recommended sub-advisors may have policies and procedures regarding the handling of trade errors that vary from that of the Firm's. Please consult the sub-advisor's Form ADV, Part 2 and other disclosure documents for further information concerning such practices.

I. Custody:

The Firm previously disclosed that it directly debits advisory fees from the Wrap Fee Accounts. The Firm does not have custody of assets maintained in the Wrap Fee Account Program. For clients enrolled in the TPM program, either the TPM platform provider directly debits advisory fees from client accounts and remits payment to the Firm or the Firm debits advisory fees from client accounts and remits payment to the TPM provider. Custody has been defined by regulators as having access or control over client funds and/or securities.

For Wrap Fee Accounts, the Firm has the authority to have fees deducted directly from client accounts. For TPM Program clients, either the TPM platform provider directly debits fees from the client's account and remits payment to the Firm or the Firm debits fees from client accounts and remits payment to the TPM provider. The Firm has established procedures to ensure all client funds and securities are held at a qualified custodian in a separate account for each client under that client's name. Clients or an independent representative of the client will direct, in writing, the establishment of all accounts and, therefore, are aware of the qualified custodian's name, address, and the manner in which the funds or securities are maintained. Account statements are delivered directly from the qualified custodian to each client, or the client's independent representative, at least quarterly. You should carefully review those statements and are urged to compare the statements against reports received from the Firm. When you have questions about your account statements, you should contact the Firm or the qualified custodian responsible for preparing the statement. Clients should contact the Firm directly if they believe that there may be an error in their statement.

In addition to the periodic statements that clients receive directly from their custodians, the Firm also produces and sends account statements directly to its managed account clients on a quarterly basis, except for accounts managed by a TPM. The TPM is responsible for performance reporting on managed accounts traded on their platform; these statements are produced by the TPM and made available to the Firm to disseminate to clients. The Firm urges its clients to carefully compare the information provided on these statements to ensure all account transactions, holdings, and values are accurate.

Standing Letters of Authorization (“SLOA ”)

Our Firm is deemed to have custody of clients’ funds or securities when clients have standing authorizations with their custodian to move money from a client’s account to a third-party (“SLOA”) and, under that SLOA, it authorizes us to designate the amount or timing of transfers with the custodian. The SEC has set forth a set of standards intended to protect client assets in such situations, which we follow. We do not have a beneficial interest on any of the accounts we are deemed to have Custody where SLOAs are on file. In addition, account statements reflecting all activity on the account(s), are delivered directly from the qualified custodian to each client or the client’s independent representative, at least quarterly. You should carefully review those statements and are urged to compare the statements against reports received from us. When you have questions about your account statements, you should contact us, your Advisor or the qualified custodian preparing the statement.

J. Investment Discretion:

Clients may hire the Firm to provide discretionary asset management services, in which case the Firm will place trades in a client's account without contacting the client beforehand to obtain permission.

The Firm’s discretionary authority includes the ability to do the following without contacting the client:

- Determine the security to buy or sell; and/or
- Determine the amount of the security to buy or sell

Clients give the Firm discretionary authority when they sign the discretionary investment advisory agreement; clients may limit this authority by giving the Firm written instructions. Clients may also amend such limitations by providing the Firm with written instructions. As disclosed in this Brochure’s Item 4, the Firm does not provide non-discretionary asset management services.

K. Financial Information:

The Firm has no financial circumstances to report. Under no circumstances does the Firm require or solicit payment of fees in excess of $1,200 per client more than six months in advance of services rendered. Therefore, the Firm is not required to include a financial statement. Furthermore, the Firm has not been the subject of a bankruptcy petition at any time during the past ten years.
